Upland OKs new building on Mountain

By NANCY WALLACE
Staff Writer

Upland's second high-rise office complex, a third major development planned for Mountain Avenue, received a stamp of approval last week from the Upland Planning Commission.

The project is dubbed the "Gateway Plaza" by developer JBS Construction Corp. because it sits at the corner of Seventh Street and Mountain Avenue, the southwest entrance to the city. JBS is the Claremont firm responsible for the The Village Plaza in that city.

The proposal includes twin eight-story office structures facing Seventh Street, with a three-level parking structure in back, immediately north of the westbound Mountain Avenue offramp from Interstate 10.

JBS representatives told the commission they were attracted by the property's proximity to the freeway. Commissioners told JBS they were attracted to the project's plans for extensive landscaping and a large fountain in the center of the complex. Approval of this "marriage" now goes to the City Council.

If approved, the Gateway Plaza will be the third major development on Mountain Avenue in the last six months. The City Council approved plans July 6 for the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association double high-rise at the corner of Eighth Street, and plans for a commercial-office project by the McIntyre Co. for the northeast corner of Mountain at 11th Street on July 20.

And last week the council approved the building of a condominium project immediately east of the PFF high-rises on Eighth Street near Mountain Avenue.

Upland traffic engineer Peter Liu said all these developments will add to the traffic on already-congested Mountain Avenue, but the developers and city will do all they can to mitigate the potential problems.

For JBS, those mitigation measures include adding a right-turn lane to the east side of Mountain at Seventh Avenue, and widening Seventh Avenue east of Mountain to add both a left- and a right-turn lane.

Liu said the city plans to widen the west side of Mountain Avenue at Seventh Street for an extra lane to the westbound ramp of Interstate 10. The city is also working with the California Department of Transportation to add a new storm drain at Mountain beneath the freeway.

Residents living in the unincorporated county area surrounded by Upland's city limits don't want to be annexed to the city, fearing regulations and the loss of a rural lifestyle. Surrounding their filly Lucy are Eugene Bowman, neighbor Jurdy Burlison, Tripper and Todd Bowman. Buildings being built nearby are consuming open areas.

Annexation met with protest

By NANCY WALLACE
Staff Writer

Residents and business people in the 370 acres of county land adjacent to Upland want no part of "the city life" and have united against a proposal to make their neighborhoods part of Upland.

The city proposed to annex county land bordered by Arrow Highway on the south, Foothill Boulevard on the north, Benson Avenue on the east and the Los Angeles County line on the west. A few property owners and residents, determined to remain unincorporated, decided to prepare an organized opposition to the proposal.

These residents and business people were so serious they secured legal help to present their position to the Upland City Council this week. Attorney Pete Norrell submitted a petition of 84 signatures of those rejecting the city's proposal to annex their area to Upland.

In his presentation, Norrell said the petitions represented opposition from 97 percent of the residents in the area and 65 percent of the registered voters.

The annexation will be automatically killed if 51 percent of the registered voters oppose the proposal. The city clerk will verify the signatures within the next several days, and report back to the council at its Dec. 7 meeting.

Those organizing the opposition decided using a single, professional spokesman for the group would be more effective than repeated verbal protests from individuals.

"We already tried that, and it didn't work too well," Jerry Marsh said, referring to the Sept. 3 meeting of the Local Agency Formation Commission. He recalled that although many people voiced fervent opposition to the annexation, LAFCO approved it anyway.

Dissolution fight won by MVWD

By STEVE SCAUZILLO
Staff Writer

The ongoing Monte Vista Water District dissolution battle that set that district and the city of Montclair at odds was put to a decisive end Wednesday by a unanimous vote for denial by the Local Agency Formation Commission.

The 5-0 vote by LAFCO is enough to put to rest the possibility of dissolution of the water district, as well as any annexation of lands in the Montclair sphere of influence connected with the dissolution proposal.

The full seven-member commission did not hear the issue because both county supervisors who serve on it were absent.

Cal McElwain of the local 2nd District and 1st District Supervisor Robert Older could not attend because they were at a convention of California supervisors in Fresno, said LAFCO executive officer Larry Hendon.

Supervisor-alternate Robert L. Hammock, 5th District, was also at the Fresno convention, said Hendon.

The seven-member commission, established for each county by state law to hear organizational disputes between local governments, needs a minimum of four concurring votes in order to act.

Those voting in Wednesday's decision were: William T. Hartzell, public member; Eileen Carter, councilwoman from Chino; Edward Dondelinger, councilman from Adelanto; Herald Bertolotti of the Apple Valley Fire Protection District, and Norman Forrest of the San Bernardino Valley Municipal Water District.

As was expected, the two commission members who serve on special district boards led the arguments against dissolving the special (single-purpose) water district in Montclair.

Bertolotti came to the conclusion — after four hours of testimony from the city, the district and those residents against annexation — that the petition campaign led by Judy Govette last summer was invalid.

"I don't think the petitioners really knew what they were signing," said Bertolotti. He felt that the 843 registered voters who signed Govette's dissolution petition were led to believe that the rates would go up again after seeing a flyer picked up from the petitioner's table which read: "Do You Want To Pay Twice As Much For Your Water? Do You Know You Don't Have To!"

The flyer was presented to LAFCO by Chuck Hobbs, management consultant hired by the water district.

Forrest, the other special district board member, sought to discredit Govette's petition during an intense line of questioning before the commission and audience.

"You have taken the time of a lot of people in your attempt to destroy a district that has been in operation longer than the city of Montclair," said

Forrest.

In Govette's rebuttal to these charges, she repeated her stand that the petition signers were not misled and only signed to carry out the stated objective of having the issue investigated by a governmental agency (LAFCO) and eventually put on the ballot.

Montclair City Councilman George Klotz objected to Forrest's treatment of Govette and likened it to her being "put on trial."

"You just did a great job of putting people down," Klotz told Forrest.

Klotz spoke for the city and reiterated its position against the annexation proposal in the city's sphere of influence put forth by Hendon.

But the resolution passed by the city in October in support of a public vote on the dissolution issue was attacked by members of the commission.

Bertolotti and Forrest attacked the city's resolution, which supports the centralization of urban services under the jurisdiction of the city of Montclair.

Wording of the resolution which states that the city "has the resources and expertise to provide all urban services ... (along with the staff and facilities of the water district)" could not be supported, said Bertolotti and Forrest.

"This resolution is all conjecture because there has been no study made," concluded Bertolotti.

However, City Manager

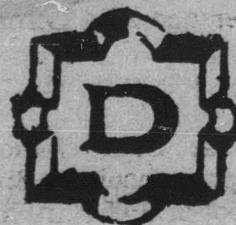

Mike Milhiser defended the city's position as "neutral" with the exception of supporting placement of the issue on the ballot.

Although Govette collected more than 800 legitimate signatures on a petition, none of those supporters addressed LAFCO at Wednesday's meeting.

Most of the residents in opposition live in the county unincorporated area located south of State Street.

Alta Loma Schools to change starting times

By ANDREA ADELSON
Staff Writer

Parents of elementary students in the Alta Loma School District will have to readjust their alarm clocks after New Year's Day as most children will be starting school at a different time.

With the opening of a new Deer Canyon elementary school on January 4, more children will be walking to school, eliminating the need to spread out school starting times to accommodate bus schedules, explained Floyd Stork, district director for personnel and support services.

The change was also recommended by Superintendent John McMurtry to iron out late bus runs at two elementary schools, resulting from junior high school students being dismissed during the same time elementary students are going home.

By a 5-0 vote, Alta Loma trustees Monday adopted the new starting times effective Jan. 4.

The first call to classrooms at Alta Loma and Jasper schools will change from its present 7:45 a.m. starting time to 8:05 a.m. Primary children riding buses will leave at 2 p.m. and upper grades will leave classes at 2:25 p.m.

Deer Canyon students, presently split between Jasper and Alta Loma, with a kindergarten class at Carnelian, will have the same 8:25 a.m. starting time as Carnelian.

Youngsters at Stork School, who currently begin school at 8:45 a.m., will start school at 9:05 a.m. and leave at 2:35 and 3:05 p.m.

Junior high schoolers now beginning classes at 8 a.m. will start a little earlier at 7:40 a.m. and leave by 1:40 p.m.

By taking 400 students off bus routes because they will be in walking distance to the new Deer Canyon School, the district will be able "to squeeze (starting times) together," said Stork.

Stork said the district will be operating the same 10 bus routes, but will trim delays because all the junior high school students riding buses will have been taken home before the elementary students are released.

High school district approves holiday

Students and employees of the Chaffey Joint Union High School District will have a day off on Martin Luther King's birthday, district trustees decided last week.

The holiday falls on Jan. 15 next year and on Jan. 14 in 1983.

Trustees made the decision to conform with new state legislation that adds Martin Luther King day to the list of days when schools are not in session.

To make sure the school calendar still has 175 instructional days, a day used for student registrations between the first and second semester will become an instructional day.

The board's action will make Feb. 1, 1982 and Jan. 31, 1983 regular school days.

Panel supports big annexation

Overcoming past doubts about financing improvements on the Corona Expressway, the county Local Agency Formation Commission on Wednesday recommended annexation of nearly 500 acres to Chino.

The irregularly shaped area would bring Chino's western boundary to the expressway between Carbon Canyon Road and Chino Avenue.

Final approval is needed from the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors. That hearing has not yet been scheduled.

The commission voted 5-0 to recommend the annexation of 498.5 acres.

Supervisor Robert Older, a commission member, raised questions in October about Chino's commitment to help finance widening of the state highway. Although the vote then was 3-2 for approval, the annexation recommendation was delayed for lack of four votes.

Older was absent on Wednesday, and the LAFCO staff report by executive officer Larry Hendon made it clear that financing of Highway 71 improvements should be a question separate from the annexation.

City Manager John Gerardi said Chino reached agreement with the county that the city would consider use of local funds for the highway improvements, which so far have failed to gain state approval.

Supervisor Robert Townsend, who represents the Chino area, had held up the usually routine board approval of an agreement on the distribution of property taxes until an understanding was reached with the city.

Gerardi said that understanding was reached after discussions between County Administrative Officer Robert Rigney and himself and between Townsend and Chino Mayor Larry Walker.

Townsend still hopes to place the highway improvements on the five-year state transportation improvement plan.

Gerardi stressed that Chino had agreed only to consider use of its local funds. Older objected in October to the city's unwillingness to make a firmer commitment. Gerardi said that commitment would have been to some formula yet to be determined.

Anorexia also affects older women patients

Chronic anorexia nervosa is a self-starvation disease most common among young women, but also it can affect older patients.

Anorexia can be chronic or relapsing in 30 to 50 percent of all cases and sometimes can result in death. The condition can be a "medical mimic" whose symptoms often are masked or taken as indications of other medical problems, according to a report in a recent issue of California Medical Association's Western Journal of Medicine.

The authors, Drs. Soo Borson and Wayne Katon of the University of Washington medical school in Seattle, point out that in older patients, anorexia "has a less severe or chronic relapsing course, presents unusual clinical features" and the symptoms of chronic weight loss "mimic other diseases, confound the diagnosis and delay appropriate treatment."

In younger patients, they note, anorexia is characterized by a compulsive desire to lose weight or to refrain from eating. The patient "refuses to eat. She experiences hunger but is gratified by her ability to repudiate it." In teen-aged anorexics, self-starvation may represent assertion of will or independence, a statement of self-identity. In older patients, however, the same need for self-expression is not always evident, so patients may be considered "too old or too sick" to be suffering from anorexia, and the condition may be misdiagnosed.

Successful treatment of the older anorexic requires a broader understanding of dietary habits, stress situations in the patient's family, the patient's attitudes concerning weight loss and "ideal weight," and other psychosomatic (interrelating mental and physical) factors.

"Finally, clinicians do well to bear in mind that in our affluent culture, where food is relatively cheap and readily available in quantity and variety," food habits are a convenient vehicle for expression of interpersonal problems demonstrated by "refusal to eat, refusal to limit eating or adoption of bizarre rituals and patterns of food intake unrelated to nutritional need," Drs. Borson and Katon conclude.

Special library aids area law enforcement

By JIM MARXEN
 Staff Writer

It started out as an attempt to cut down on trips into Los Angeles and ended up becoming the only library of its type in the West End.

Created six years ago by grant money from the California Council on Criminal Justice, the West End Community Information Center provides filmed information on criminal justice to schools, community groups and police departments.

Formation of the information center, which is housed in Montclair High School's instructional materials center, took place when Montclair police officers found that trips to a Los Angeles film library were taking valuable time away from the department's campus information program.

With help from Montclair High School librarian Alma Polk, Montclair and Chino police departments were able to round up nearly $16,000 in federal, state and local money to launch the film library.

Today, long after the original grant funding ran out, the information center continues to grow and be used by the community, according to Polk.

With titles like "Officer Down, Code Three," "Somebody Stole My Bike" and "How to Say No to a Rapist," the library has collected 80 films that are regularly shown in the West End.

Films are designed to strengthen a positive relationship between police departments and the community, educate the public on crime prevention and provide police training.

In the late 1970s, budget cuts hampered the information center's ability to expand and care for its films, and alternate sources of funding had to be sought.

"To raise money we had to notify the agencies that use our films that they would have to pay a fee," Polk said.

"We needed the money to repair the films and we had no budget set up for that."

"The school couldn't carry the cost so we had to ask that the agencies pay a $75 fee for unlimited use of the films for one year."

Part of the problem has been the rising cost of films. Polk said one film originally cost about $300 when the information center was formed. Today the same film costs $500.

Donations have also helped the center. A recent donation by the Soptimist Club helped purchase a film on rape — the most popular subject within the information center's catalogue.

"When we started," Polk said, "we only had a certain amount of dollars and we had to decide which films would serve our purposes the best."

Films were reviewed by police departments, by teachers and by Polk and were judged on the basis of how they would help meet the objectives of the program.

"The ultimate goal was to better police relations with the community by working with students," Polk said. "We felt we could get a head start with those students who saw the films."

Although budget cuts also limited community relations programs, most police departments still find a need for films within the instructional center, Polk said.

Rare art works on display

RIVERSIDE — A group of rare prints by the Spanish artist Francisco de Goya y Luciens (1746-1828) is on display in the lobby of the University Library at the University of California, Riverside, through Dec. 9.

"La Tauromaquia," prints depicting the art of bullfighting which Goya may also have intended as social commentary, are on view free to the public during library hours — 8 a.m. to midnight Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, and 1 p.m. to midnight Sunday.

On loan from UCR's Richard Krooth, Visiting Lecturer in Sociology, are 27 prints from the full series of 33. The other six, represented by copies, complete the display.

There are only two complete sets of "La Tauromaquia" in the United States — one held by a private East Coast collector, the other by the Norton Simon Museum in Pasadena, according to Krooth.

Accompanying the prints is a commentary by Krooth.

News briefs

Host families being sought

Host families are being sought for 21 agriculture students from Japan, soon to arrive in Southern California to attend Cal Poly Pomona for 11 weeks of classroom study.

The students, from 21 to 25 years of age, are sponsored by Big Bend Community College at Moses Lake, Wash. Their visit has also been authorized and approved by the Ministry of Agriculture in Japan, and by the United States Departments of Agriculture, Justice, Interior, and Labor.

The students all speak and understand English at least moderately well, and communication is not anticipated to be a problem between American families and them, according to Lloyd A. Newell, Cal Poly professor emeritus, department of plant and soil science, and coordinator of the host family program.

Individuals interested in hosting a student for 11 weeks, or in obtaining further information, may call (714) 598-4747 from 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Lamaze instruction to begin

A "Preparation for Parenthood" class, featuring training for childbirth by the "Lamaze" method is taking registration. The class is held in Room 118 at Chaffey High School, Math/Science Building. It will meet for eight weeks on Wednesday or Thursday from 7-9:30 p.m.

Topics included in the weekly sessions are: Lamaze 'relaxation', breathing, pushing, and body toning, techniques, nutrition for pregnancy and parent communications, feelings, Cesarean and emergency childbirth, infant care and feeding, new parenting and pre/post-natal exercises.

It is designed for women in their last eight to ten weeks of pregnancy and their coaches. There is a $10 fee for materials. Registration is at the first class meeting. For further information call Chaffey Adult School, 983-2010 or Mrs. McGee, the teacher, at 737-5407.

Writers competition nears

The deadline for entries for the Seventh Annual Writers' Day Festival competition at Mt. San Antonio College is noon on Tuesday.

The contest is open to all MSAC students, high school students and residents of the MSAC district.

The categories for entries are Short Fiction; Science Fiction and Fantasy; Poetry; Article or Criticism; One Act Play; TV or Film Script; Children's Fiction; Juvenile Fiction; and Autobiography or Personal Journal.

The efforts will be judged by the MSAC English Department faculty and the award for first prize in each category and division is $25. There is no entry fee.

Entries should be sent to Brenda Stokes, MSAC English Department. For complete information call (714) 594-5611, extension 590.

See 'Taming of the Shrew'

"Taming of the Shrew," William Shakespeare's classic "battle-of-the-sexes," will be presented Fridays and Saturdays, Dec. 4, 5, 11 and 12, at 8 p.m. in the Mt. San Antonio College Little Theatre.

Tickets for the play are $3 for adults and $1.50 for MSAC students and staff, and Gold Card holders.

The play is being performed as part of a state-wide celebration of the Bard's 450th birthday.

"Taming of the Shrew" is the story of two sisters who are both attractive, but only one has a likeable personality.

Bianca, the friendly younger sister, is pursued by a variety of suitors but cannot marry until her older sister Kate, "The Shrew" in the play, takes a husband.

Suitor Petruchio attempts to tame the shrew, lured by Kate's large dowry.

Tickets are available from the Little Theatre box office. Call (714) 594-5611, extension 338, for further information and reservations.

OIA panel settles on road plan

By RICHARD PERAZA
Staff Writer

The Ontario International Airport's Ground Access Committee has settled on a $55 million network of roadway improvements that should make the airport easier for motorists to reach in the future.

Committee members, who met Friday to vote their willingness to recommend the plan, said a draft environmental impact report on it should be ready for them to review in January.

However, committee members have not yet decided how to implement the plan nor how to divide the $55 million price tag.

The committee was formed in late 1979 when the California Department of Transportation granted OIA a permit to construct its new runway. A condition of that permit was formation of a committee to establish a plan for upgrading roads around the airport to handle an eventual 12 million annual passengers expected by the end of the century.

"The alternative, actually, does not vary very much from what we've been looking at the last year," said Larry Foutz, the project's chief technical advisor.

The plan calls for enough land on either side of Haven Avenue between Interstate 10 and state Route 60 to be secured to make it a six-lane thoroughfare, although it stipulates widening the road to only four lanes until the extra width is actually needed.

Foutz said that would require reconstruction of Interstate 10 off and on-ramps at Haven and construction of a new diamond interchange at state Route 60. He said it might also require an underpass past Southern Pacific Railroad lines. "That would be if needed; at this time we're not officially calling for it," he said.

It would also require extension of Haven since it doesn't run all the way south to state Route 60 at present.

He said Jurupa Avenue, between Archibald Avenue and Interstate 10, should also be built up to four lanes, but land should be secured for six in case more width is needed later.

Archibald Avenue, between Interstate 10 and Airport Drive, should be treated the same way, according to Foutz. The plan calls for addition of an eastbound offramp and a westbound onramp at the freeway, he said.

Archibald will be important because it will eventually become the primary entrance to OIA, Foutz said.

Grove Avenue, between state Route 60 and State Street should also be masterplanned as a six-lane road. However, studies indicate the present four lanes should be adequate to the year 1995, he advised.

Airport Drive between

Grove and Haven avenues should also be expanded to four lanes, according to the plan.

Foutz said implementation of the plan will mean the installation of several new signal lights at various locations.

The plan doesn't comment much on the airport's internal circulation but suggests that a lane be dedicated to transit vehicles and that bus bays, lighted shelters and bus information centers be provided.

Foutz said if the airport uses signs properly, outgoing traffic can be diverted evenly toward the three area freeways — Interstate 10, state Route 60 and Interstate 15, instead of allowing them all to flood Interstate 10.

Although in general agreement with the recommended plan, Rancho Cucamonga Mayor Jon Mikels and Ontario Mayor Robert Ellingwood said they did have concerns about it.

Mikels said it was important to beef up southern portions of Haven Avenue so that traffic can be diverted south, away from Interstate 10.

He pointed out that most of the study's traffic projections assumed the Foothill Freeway would eventually be built. "If that is not done a lot of those figures are going to change," he said.

Ellingwood said he would rather see more emphasis placed on Grove Avenue.

Master gardener

By Judy Garrett
Dear Master Gardener:
Q. We are in a new home and want to plant some trees in our yard. Which size is better to plant? We've seen them from seedlings to 20 feet tall.

A. It is best not to buy the largest trees you can find. Younger trees recover more quickly from the shock of planting. A 12-foot tree will usually catch up to the size of a 20-foot specimen in about 3 years. Also, 8- to 10-foot trees are easier to handle, less expensive, and grow faster than larger ones.

Q. How can I make new plants from my echeveria?

A. The echeveria and many other succulents are very easy to propagate. The offsets of echeveria grow as small rosettes along the stem of the mother plant. To separate these offsets, just pinch them from the main stem and place them directly in your potting soil. Some of the lower leaves of the offset can be trimmed, if necessary, so that it will sit well in the soil. It will soon produce its own roots. Since these plants need a dry environment, allow the soil to dry out completely between waterings.

Q. Directions given for many plants say "requires good drainage." How can I tell if a planting site has good drainage?

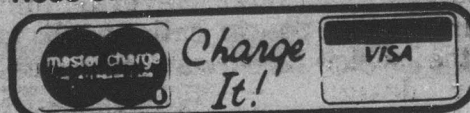

A. A simple test will aid you in determining how fast or slow water moves through your soil. Remove both ends from a coffee can. In the area you want to test, push the can into the soil to a depth of four inches. Fill the can with water and allow it to drain through. Fill the can again, and time how long it takes for the water level to drop one inch. If it takes longer than two hours, you probably will have problems with plants that don't do well in soil with poor drainage.

Problems with your plants? Send your gardening questions to UC Masters Gardeners, Cooperative Extension, 21150 Box Springs Road, Riverside 92507. It is impossible to respond individually to letters but the most common questions will be answered in this column.

Senior citizen center site recommended

By Vonne Robertson
Staff Writer

Claremont citizens have long agreed they wanted a senior citizen center. Now, it appears they are in accord on its location.

The Claremont Human Services Commission, by a 6-0 vote, will recommend to the Claremont City Council that the center be constructed in the southwestern portion of Larkin Park generally facing Mountain Avenue.

After two hours of discussion by representatives of various community groups, the commissioners agreed that the advantages of the new location outweighed the previous proposed location on Seventh Street.

This was a victory for the six families residing on the cul-de-sac on Seventh Street who opposed the first location in the northeastern portion of the park.

Peter Coye, spokesman for the residents, said the street already bears heavy traffic due to the use of a ball diamond and picnic area in the northern part of the park.

The motion to place the building in the southwestern portion of the park was made by Commissioner Helene Goldwater. She also asked that the play equipment now located in the area be relocated in such a manner that the integrity of the park be maintained.

The tiny tot play area on Harrison Avenue in the southern portion of the park will not be disturbed. Another play area will be relocated.

Janis Weinberger, speaking for the senior citizen center design committee, said the central location appears to meet several design criteria which must be considered.

"We need to consider the impact on the park, any additional costs incurred by changing the location and the security, accessibility and visibility of the location," Mrs. Weinberger noted.

She objected to a proposed third location, north of the bowling greens, because of the possibility of having to give up building space to provide a turnaround in the street for drivers.

Isabel Malcolm, representing the Claremont Senior Citizen Club, said the central location would be more easily reached from existing parking lots.

Joanne Gonzalez, director of the senior referral service, noted that people seeking help from the center often pass several times before they have the courage to enter and ask for assistance.

"These people need a place they can easily identify," she said. "We have several hundred new calls each month from seniors seeking our services. They need a place they can find easily."

Jack Trumbo, the architect serving on the project, said the location does have certain advantages.
